C. H. Hayman House
Princess Anne private

Hayman family tradition holds to an 1898 date of construction for this impressive Queen Anne style house located on the southwest corner of Prince William and Church streets. In contrast to other Queen Anne style dwellings in Somerset County, such as the Hinman Funeral Home, also in Princess Anne, and the Pauline Crockett house in Crisfield, the Hayman house was designed with stronger references to Colonial Revival. Encircling the basically symmetrical north facade is a Tuscan columned porch trimmed with a balustrade of urn-topped posts. With similar classical inspiration the recessed center entrance is framed by slender colonnettes. Paralleling the porch is a rooftop balustrade with classical urns finishing each post as well. The only truly asymmetrical exterior feature is the two-story bay that extends from the east side of the house. Lighting the third floor is a combination of hip roofed and gabled dormers. Inside, the first floor rooms are fitted with neo-classical mirrored mantels, colored tile hearths, and original turn of the century hardware.

Charles Harrison Hayman erected this finely built dwelling four years after he purchased the corner lot from Hampden P. Dashiell for $1,000. C. H. Hayman is better known for starting the C. H. Hayman and Sons hardware store on "Lot 4," which he purchased in 1894 as well.

NOTABLE FEATURES, HISTORICAL SIGNIFICANCE AND DESCRIPTION OPEN TO PUBLIC no This house is a large frame Victorian structure 3 bays wide and 3 bays deep. It has a hipped roof with a dormer on each side. The hipped roof is capped by a wooden fence. This is known as a "Widow's Walk". A porch runs the length of the house and its railing employs the same baluster design as that found in the widow's walk. This house is a fine example of a carpenter style house and is really the only one of its type in Princess Anne. Its decoration is almost too simple for Victorian and looks forward to the modern style of house - the house is noted for its panelling and hardware. The grounds are well kept-up with much boxwood.
